BEFORE YOU MOVE

MOVING GUIDE

TOP TIPS AND TRICKS FOR MOVING

Any move, whether it's big or small, can be stressful and sometimes overwhelming. Luckily, professional movers are a great resource for first time mover. In this article, are some moving tips that will make moving a much smoother process.

1. MOVING BOXES

Newbie movers often make the mistake of searching grocery stores or Craigslist for free boxes. Don't make this rookie mistake, or you'll spend twice as much time dealing with mis-matched boxes that don't stack! Instead, go to a big-box store such as Home Depot, where you'll find moving boxes from less than $1 for a small box, to about $2.50 for an XL. Also, check your local NextDoor.com for neighbors who are giving away their used moving boxes.

2. KEEP YOUR HANGERS

Instead of paying $18 per wardrobe box, leave your clothes on the hanger! Simply zip tie clothes together in groups as large as you can comfortably carry. Layer them out on your car seats and in your trunk. Now you can take them straight to your new closet and hang them up!

3. ORGANIZE YOUR BOXES

As more and more boxes load into the moving truck, it becomes harder to track which box goes where. Label your boxes! One way is to organize your boxes is to simply label the box with the room it goes in. Much of this labeling depends on the contents of the box. If there are things that go in two separate rooms, make sure to specify that. On the front and top of each box, use a broad-tip sharpie to mark the room and write contents. This will make unpacking go much faster.

The second way to organize your boxes is by using colored adhesive tape. E.g., green tape for the kitchen, red for the master etc. With this technique, you can skip the step of writing on the box.

4. SAFELY PACK YOUR PLATES

One nightmare during any move is opening a box in your new home and finding expensive dishes broken. A trick for keeping your ceramics safe is to place your plates vertically when packing. This way they are less likely to break. You can also place foam plates in between your glassware to give the cushion and support some need during a move.

5. PACKING TECHNOLOGY

Many TVs require extensive packing in order to keep the screen from damage or malfunction. An easy way to keep your screen protected is to cover it with blankets or towels. This soft cushion will provide protection to the screen. Just in case, wrapping the entire TV in tape is recommended to ensure the protection during the moving travel. Make sure when the TV is loaded into the truck, it is stood upright with nothing pushing against the screen. Laying it down can damage the screen. If you kept the original box that the TV came in, an easy way to keep it safe is to repack it into the box and add some blankets or styrofoam. If you can, move the TV yourself by putting it in the back of an SUV.

6. PACKING DRAWERS

Make sure to empty your drawers when packing cabinets or dressers, and turn them facing the side of the truck so they won't slide out in transit. Packing furniture will be much easier as drawers won't be tempted to fall out. In addition, if you take those drawers out, they can be used as extra storage. Any small items can be put in these drawers as they may get lost in a bigger box. The drawers are better moved in your car so they don't create stacking issues in the moving truck.

7. KEEP MIRRORS AND PICTURES SAFE

Along with your TV, mirrors and pictures are easily broken if not packed properly. To pack these effectively, pictures and mirrors should be packed separately. Using bubble wrap or newspaper is a good way to keep your items as protected as possible. Finally, don't forget to indicate the box is fragile when labeling.

8. PACK USING YOUR TOWELS AND SHEETS

An easy alternative to using bubble wrap or newspaper is to use your sheets or lines as protection for fragile objects. Instead of wasting space in a spare box, they can be used to protect your valuables. This will also save your bubble wrap or newspaper for other fragile items.

9. HOLES IN YOUR WALL?

Having small holes in your wall can be one more inconvenience while trying to move out. Believe it or not, an easy way to fix these is to rub a bar of soap on the hole until the hole is completely filled. This is a simple fix that won't break the bank!

10. PACK YOUR OVERNIGHT BAG

After packing your entire home, the last thing you will want to do is search through all of your boxes for your pajamas and toiletries. Make sure to pack an overnight bag that will last a few nights. This will keep the pressure off unpacking everything and it limits the stress of going through everything to find what you need for the night.

Even though this process can be overwhelming and stressful, it can also be rewarding. With these top tips to moving, we hope the process will go smoothly for you!

MOVING TIMELINE

There are many different tasks to complete when moving. Sometimes people don't realize they have to complete certain things before they move. Gaging when to start and finish packing can be a difficult task to navigate. Hopefully with this timeline, mapping out when to complete each task will be easier for you. Let's dive in!

2 MONTHS

- Start organizing! This can be as simple as tidying the house or it can be going through those pesky junk drawers.
- Go through the house and start deciding what you need in the new house. If you don't need something, then get rid of it. What you purge you won't have to pack!
- Prepare for packing! Even just thinking about how and what you're going to need to packing will help quicken process.

1 MONTH

- Make sure to check with work and schedule your moving day off.
- Look into scheduling when your utilities will be connected and disconnected.
- Be sure to fill out your change of address form.
- Purge! Gather excess belongings and donate.
- Buy boxes for future packing.

3 WEEKS

- If you have pets, find out how to move them to the new house.
- Service your major appliances.
- Schedule installation for internet, phone and cable for the new house.
- Start packing! Even if it is the little things, it will make a difference in the end.

2 WEEKS

- Return borrowed things.
- Collect things that you have loaned out.
- Purge again! Gather, bag, donate!!
- Keep packing!

1 WEEK

- Separate essentials for the road.
- Make final moving arrangements.
- Start house cleaning.

1 DAY

- Things that you need first, make sure to pack those last.
- Finish packing your suitcases.

MOVING DAY

- Final house check!
- Make sure all doors and windows are locked and be sure that all lights are turned off!
- Check that utilities in the new home are connected.

MOVING WITH KIDS

1. TELL THEM THE NEWS

This can be stressful for some parents and one way to combat that stress is to share your excitement about the move. Whether it's for a job or just for a different lifestyle, when you sound happy and excited it automatically sounds more appealing to your kids. Be sure to include how it will impact the family and what it means for them. It's also important to tell them that it is expected that they help during the moving process. If you have photos or videos, share them with the kids.

2. ASK FOR INPUT

If you are still in the selection process of buying a home, look for your kids' input. If they are older, this can be a fun way to involve them. If you live in driving distance of your future area, take your kids to go see the homes. This will promote excitement and they can visualize what life will be like if they live there. Most of all, let them know that they are being heard and their opinions matter to you. Once the decision is complete, celebrate with them!

3. ORGANIZE YOUR BOXES

Start going through the house in search of things you don't need. Take your kids room by room and have a discussion of things they think are important to keep or get rid of. Assure them that it is okay to keep things that have value and sentiment. Also discuss the importance of tossing things they do not need. As long as you are having a conversation with you kids about what they need then you should be able to come to a resolution.

4. HAVE A MOVING SALE

Once you have figured out what you need, a good way to rid of what you don't is to have a sale. If your kids were on the fence about some of the things you are selling, let them know that the money from those items will go toward something for the family. You can also have a discussion about that that money might go to. This way your kids know that the money will fund something they will enjoy.

5. RESEARCH THE NEW AREA

Research and explain the value of the new area to your kids. This will get them excited about the new things they can do living there. Avoid over-hyping the area as that could lead to disappointment. Have your kids research local events on their own and ask them what they think would be fun to do.

6. GATHER ROOM IDEAS

To get your kids excited about their space in the new house, come up with some room ideas with them. This can be paint colors, furniture, or rugs. After some discussion, you can even take them out to pick out paint swatches or take them to a furniture store. An easy way to keep your kids in line with your expectations is to give them a budget. This way they can research on their own while keeping some restriction on their spending.

7. TAKE THE KIDS TO THE AREA YOU ARE MOVING TO

Make a day of exploring what the new town has to offer. You can visit the local library, see a play at the community theatre, or just walk around town. This will familiarize your kids with the area and make them feel more at home.

8. YOU CAN HOST A “SEE YOU SOON” PARTY

Saying goodbye to friends and family can be really hard for a child. Hosting a party will ease the stress of the situation and give your kids’ friends a time to all say their goodbyes. This can also be a time where parents and kids can coordinate about times they can visit at the new home.

9. MAP YOUR ROUTE

If you look at your GPS and plan a few stops on the way to your new home, it can make the traveling more fun and timeless. This will keep the kids entertained on the trip to the new house.

10. TOUR AROUND YOUR NEW HOME

One tip to get involved in the community is to invest in a guidebook for your new city. This will give you some ideas how to get you and your family involved in the community. Whether it’s hiking, looking through a local farmer’s market, or visiting a museum, there is something for everyone in a new city.

MOVING WITH A PET

Many families have furry companions so when it's time to move, it's a move for them too! With that in mind, it's important to understand the best ways to move with a pet. Here are some tips for the moving process with pets!

1. MEET WITH YOUR VET

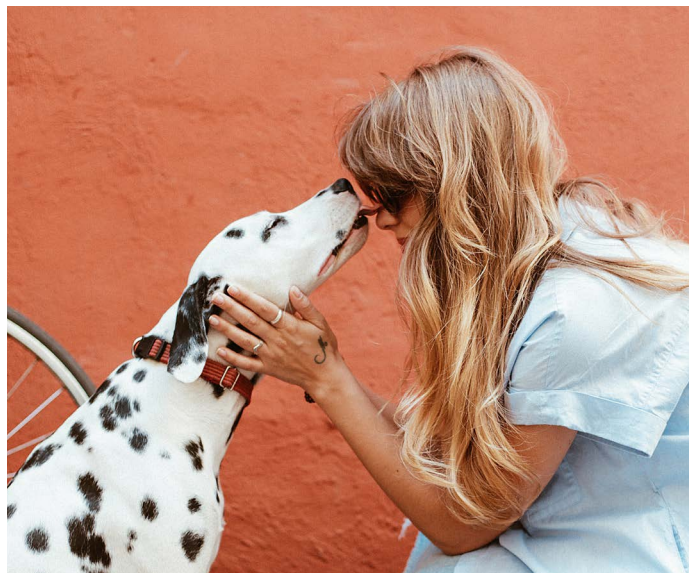

Connect with your vet before the move to grab any prescriptions and paperwork you need to take with you. It wouldn't be a bad idea to ask for a recommendation for a vet in your new area.

2. KEEP YOUR PETS AWAY FROM STRESS

A way to reduce the stress of moving on a pet is to keep it away from all of the commotion. An easy way to achieve this is by leaving them with a friend or kennel for the day. If this is not the best option for your pet, then at least moving them into an empty room or floor. This way they are still around the house but out of the stressful environment. Be sure to check on them routinely and treat their needs.

3. PREPARE YOUR HOUSE

Where will your cat's litter box go? Does the yard have gaps in the fence that need to be repaired or closed in? Are there plants in your backyard that are poisonous to your pet? Take all necessary steps to ensure the safety of your pet in your new home.

4. TRAVEL WITH YOUR PET

Make sure that your pet is in your vehicle when it comes time to move. This way you can have full awareness of what they need during the traveling process. This also provides a sense of comfort for your pet.

5. DON'T LET YOUR PET OUT UNTIL IT IS IN THE HOUSE

Especially in a new neighborhood or area, pets are curious and want to explore. Even if they are usually well-behaved, it is recommended to keep your pets inside for the first few days after the move. This will help them adapt and find their place in the new home.

If you are a cat owner, use this transition to train your cat to stay indoors. Many people have chosen to keep their cats inside due to safety concerns. This move can be used to your advantage.

6. MOVE THE HOUSE BEFORE YOUR PET

A good strategy is to move in as much furniture and décor as you can so that when your pet arrives, they feel just as at home as you do. You don't have to move in the entire house, but even one room can make a huge difference for your pet. Make sure to bring your pet's favorite toys and blankets as soon as possible. This will help your pet feel comfort in your new home.

7. UPDATE YOUR PET'S TRACKING INFORMATION

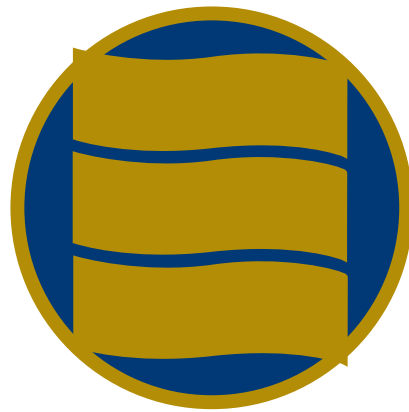

If you have a tag or microchip for your pet, make sure to update it with your new address or phone number. In case your pet gets lost or runs off, this will help the person who finds your beloved pet. One tip to get involved in the community is to invest in a guidebook for your new city. This will give you some ideas how to get you and your family involved in the community. Whether it's hiking, looking through a local farmer's market, or visiting a museum, there is something for everyone in a new city.
